KAGAWA MEMORIAL HALL

Kagawa Memorial Hall is the place where Toyohiko Kagawa and his companions started their work with great ambition in 1909.

Since then, we have been trying to work as a community center to do community welfare, hope for peace, and to build a society where people can live together.

In 2009, the members of the Jesus Band and fellow companions gathered to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Toyohiko Kagawa's devotion.

Together, this new building was constructed in memory of his devotion and to maintain our devotions for the next centennial.

All works that started 100 years ago at Kagawa Memorial Hall (originally Kyureidan = soul saving group) were all outside the frame of the social security (social welfare) at that time.

Earnestly, we are working hard to spread our views and grapple with various kinds of problems in the modern society and of the surrounding areas.

We hope all of you to join us to promote our activities..
Let's Walk Together.

Toyohiko Kagawa
1888~1960

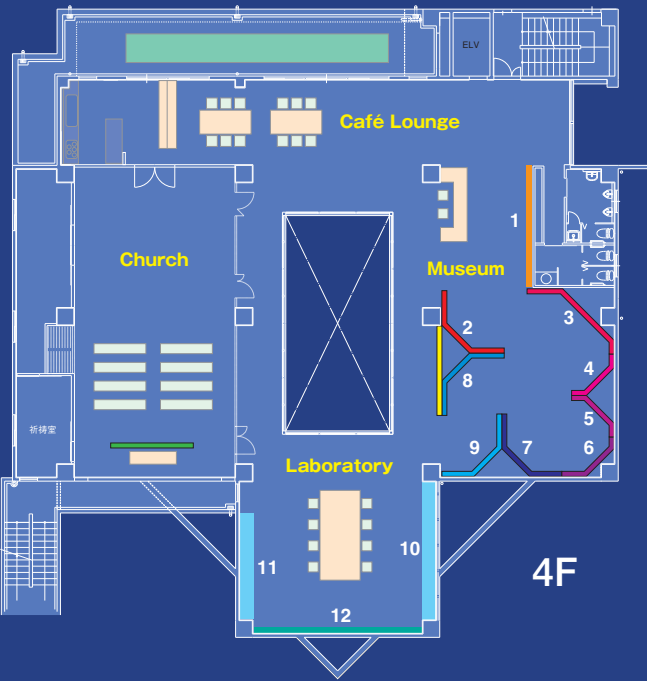

The works, which Toyohiko Kagawa and his companions did between 1909-1923, which started from community welfare to support people's everyday life, became the roots of co-operative movement, labor movement, peasant movement, peace movement etc. Toyohiko Kagawa devoted his life to the deprived or suffering people.

These activities did not remain only in Kobe but spread all over Japan after the Great Kanto Earthquake. This helped to build up the bases of action for welfare, education, medicine, products, labor, co-operatives, peace, human rights and co-living.
